Biographical or Historical Note

The Oxbo Manufacturing Company was founded by Roswell citizen J. H. "Pony" Waller in 1894 on Oxbo Road. The company manufactured pants from 1894-1983 and was for many years among the largest employers in the Roswell area.

In 1941, the Oxbo Pants Factory building at historically known Hog Wallow Creek (currently Hog Waller Creek) burned to the ground. The next year, the factory was rebuilt on Hill Street and renamed the Roswell Company. In 1990, the Hill Street factory was demolished to make way for the Roswell Law Enforcement Center.
